On Saturday, the New York Times said that President Trump and the Republicans in Congress are locked in a battle over the border wall. The newspaper wrote: "Suddenly, the president is more interested in a border barrier than his own border wall. He has agreed to fund nearly two dozen border-wall projects in his quest to get about $5.6 billion for his wall that has proved elusive." Does this newspaper have a hidden agenda? In fact, these two border projects — the wall and the "cooler" — have nothing to do with each other. Trump's wall will be built in areas where there is a real need for a wall, not in areas where there is already one. And because of what we are learning about the Trump administration's "zero-tolerance policy" for families being separated at the border, which required all adults to be prosecuted for illegal entry, the "cooler" needs more attention than ever. The "cooler" refers to the ICE vans that hold people while they are taken to
